

NewboRN Home Visiting

Meet the nurses who are doing home visits for NewboRN Home Visiting.

Sandee Muir, BSN, RN, RNC-NIC, CLC

Sandee Muir graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Nursing from the University of Windsor, Ontario. She has worked in labor and delivery and the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit for over 30 years at UFHealth Shands Children's Hospital. In addition to her BSN, she has an advanced RNC-NIC certification and has taken breastfeeding courses to further support the breastfeeding mom. Sandee has expertise caring for critically ill neonates in intensive care and intermediate care units, and extensive experience working with families preparing to take their newborn home from the hospital.

Sandee is passionate about supporting and teaching new moms so that they can be successful in their parenting role, promoting the best outcomes for both moms and babies. She focuses on the needs and education of families with the goal of making parenting an enjoyable and successful experience. She recognizes that this early support promotes positive long-term outcomes for all the babies in the NewboRN program.

NewboRN Home Visiting is funded by Children's Trust of Alachua County.

Cara Goss, BSN, RN,CLC

Cara Goss graduated cum laude with a Bachelor of Science in Nursing from the University of Florida. She has 18 years of experience working in the NICU at UF Health. She has taken lactation and breastfeeding courses over the years to further assist and support the breastfeeding mom.

Cara is passionate about empowering families through education, training and allocation of resources so that they feel confident in providing quality care for their newborns. She believes in supporting families to be healthy so they can have long term success and achieve their goals.

Diana Stetter,
BS,ASN,RN,RNC-MNN

Diana Stetter has a Bachelor of Science in Communications from Florida State University and an Associate of Science in Nursing from Santa Fe College. Diana worked on the Mother Baby Unit at UF Health Shands for nine years where she gained experience in all aspects of care for the postpartum mother and their newborns.

In addition, Diana has taken numerous breastfeeding classes and furthered her understanding of mother and baby by obtaining an advanced certificate in Maternal Newborn Nursing, RNC-MNN.

Diana is passionate about supporting and educating new parents with the latest information while providing quality home visits with compassion, helping families build a strong foundation for positive family futures.
